THE CYCLONE.

Its Ravages in the Northwest.

CHICAGO, May 18.—It is learned here that the cyclone passed north of Racine, Wisconsin, about 8:30 this evening, and that a number of buildings were destroyed. No particulars are obtainable, as the telegraph wires went down at that hour, and all communication northward and between this city, Milwaukee and St. Paul is cut off. At this hour, 10 o'clock, an unusually severe wind and rain storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, is prevailing here. Signs are being whirled off, and a general clear prevails about the city. Fears are entertained that some frail wooden buildings in the outskirts will be blown down, and the shipping outside driven across to the east shore of Lake Michigan. A squall struck this city this afternoon, and about 400 feet in length and 50 in width of the building for the coming exposition of railroad appliances were blown down. Four workmen were injured.
One had his leg broken, and one was scorched. But for the fact that the patients had been away a large number of lunatics about the place the casualties would have been numerous. The damage will be repaired in a couple of days.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 18.—The storm near Valparaiso yesterday was not as bad as reported. Eight buildings were demolished, including two school-houses.
Mrs. Lytt had an arm and leg broken.
Her infant was seriously hurt on the head by a flying timber. The damages will not exceed $5,000. The tornado was about 150 feet wide, and followed a ridge extending about eight miles.

HARVARD, Ill., May 19.—A cyclone, probably the same which swept things at Racine, struck this place last evening, demolishing a number of houses and killing several people.

CHICAGO, May 18.—The train over the Galena Division of the Northwestern Railroad, which arrived here tonight, brings meager particulars of the cyclone near Harvard, Ill. It struck before 6 o'clock a dark cloud, was seen hauling over Champaign, a small village near Harvard, a roaring heard, and suddenly a funnel-shaped cyclone reformed and swooped down upon the place with fearful rapidity. Houses were torn to pieces like card-boards, and were whirled through the air. Large buildings were leveled in an instant. It is understood that a number of persons were killed and attention to the wounded.

Passing eastward it struck Polkville, doing much damage. Here the winds changed to the northeast and widened to a mile. Lawrence, a small station six miles north of Harvard was badly damaged. All the brick and frame buildings alike collapsed, and their sites are marked only by heaps of debris.
Many occupants of the houses escaped by seeking cellars and other places of comparative safety, but the cyclone came with such lightning speed that many were killed before reaching the cellars. In only a few cases were houses moved from their foundations. Those in the center of the storm simply exploded and fell in ruins.

RACINE, May 18.—The first cyclone in the history of this section struck Racine this evening at 7 o'clock, passing through the extreme northwestern portion of the city, demolishing 150 houses and barns, and causing the loss of about twenty lives, besides 100 more or less seriously injured. The day was unusually bright and cool, with a fresh wind blowing from the southeast. Toward noon the sky was overcast, and at about 4 o'clock a sharp electric storm prevailed, although but little rain fell.
The sun again came out for about an hour. During the afternoon the temperature was about twenty degrees.
About 6 o'clock heavy masses of clouds again gathered in the west. The air was oppressively warm. The cyclone was announced by the breaking of the clouds, which took a whirling motion, and struck the earth with a noise which might be compared with the roar and rumbling of a thousand railroad trains thundering over a bridge. The path of the storm was a little over a mile long and perhaps a quarter of a mile wide.
The cyclone, as it moved from the city out upon the water of Lake Michigan, presented a grand spectacle, such as is seen but once in a lifetime. The whirling columns of air seemed to be monster wreaths of smoke as they whirled over the watery expanse, carrying with them columns of water. No ship that encountered this monster of the air could by any possibility escape destruction. All the physicians in the city responded nobly to the call for assistance, and did what they could to alleviate the sufferings of the wounded, who were at once conveyed to St.
Luke's and St. Mary's hospitals, where they will receive the best care. The dead were taken either to the houses of friends or to the Court-house. Inquests will be held to-morrow.

A SCENE OF DEATH AND RUIN.

RACINE, May 19.—1 P. M.—The sun rose bright this morning on the scene of destruction left by the tornado's track.
As yet the list of dead is not completed, but it is safe to estimate that 16 lives were lost in and about Racine. Men were at work clearing away the debris, and women, clad in borrowed clothes, are hurrying about with tear-stained eyes, bewailing the loss of their homes and relatives and friends.
Steps are already being taken to relieve those in immediate want, and Mayor Fish has issued a manifesto calling on the citizens for contributions, and a special meeting of the Council was held at 10 A. M., and action taken towards caring for the dead, and maimed and penniless. The suffering is confined to the very northern outskirts of the city among laborers, many of whom owned their property, which was completely swept away.

THE STORM'S WORK IN MORGAN COUNTY.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., May 19.—Morgan county experienced last evening the most disastrous wind storm ever known in her history. In the city there was considerable wind and rain, but no destruction of life or property. On Grassy Prairie, eleven miles north of here, several farm houses were destroyed, and one man, a boy and two children killed, and others injured. Southeast of the city along the Jacksonville & Southeastern railway, much damage is reported.

Near Franklin the storm was fearfully destructive.
At Piquette, the house, barn, and orchard of Jas. O'Leary were swept away, and his wife and children seriously injured.

At Woodburn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars were blown from the track and torn to atoms, the track being partially torn up.
The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here on the Peoria branch of the Wabash road.
The storm cloud was in the shape of a column, and struck the town at its southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the railway depot and repair shops, and 12 dwellings, besides injuring others, and destroying much other property. At Mrs. Griffin's house her two sons and one daughter were injured, another daughter, aged 22, killed. Her dwelling was ruined, also that of her son, Dr. S. Griffin, who with his wife is at the city hospital here, and both are probably fatally internally injured.
His seven-months-old daughter was killed. Jas. Stephenson's house was destroyed and his wife killed. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hether, an aged couple, lost their lives in their wrecked home—making five lives known to be lost at this place alone.

AT CLINTON.

CLINTON, Ill., May 19.—A terrible cyclone passed over this vicinity last night, doing an immense amount of damage to property and killing several.
The wind took a southeasterly course and followed up Sauk creek in this county, on the line of which many houses were utterly destroyed. About six miles south of Clinton the wind tore down a house, killing Peter Clinton, his wife and an eight-year-old daughter, and injuring another child. A family named Bonison was injured seriously, and many other families more or less.
Names could not be secured. The damages are very great.

AT STANTON.

STANTON, Ill., May 19.—At 10 o'clock last night a tornado passed about three miles east of here, totally demolishing the Livingston farm residence and dangerously injuring Mr. Livingston.
Other buildings in the vicinity were destroyed and orchards injured. A construction crew, consisting of about twenty-five, of the Springfield Southeastern railway company, near Mr.
Oliver's house, were sleeping in a large barn, and all are seriously injured.
Two were fatally killed.

LIVERPOOL, May 19.—The dynamite conspirators, Kennedy, O'Neil, Denny and Flanagan were arraigned in court this morning and formally charged with conspiracy to murder, as well as treason-felony.

BERLIN, May 19.—John W. Mackay of Nevada has gone to Moscow to attend the coronation of the Czar as a member of the American Mission.
Mrs. Mackay accompanies her husband.
